LEADER TIP

- Model enthusiasm for the students and keep this game fun!

INSTRUCTIONS

- Gather the students together for a trivia game.
- Invite three or four contestants up front to play.
- Direct them each to come up with their own sound to “buzz in” and answer a question.
- Let everyone know that the answer will always be one of the following religions: Christianity, Judaism, Islam, Hinduism, or Buddhism. Repeat this list after questions as needed.
- Read aloud the following questions, then prompt the contestants to make their sound before answering:
 - This religion says Jesus is a prophet—but not the greatest prophet. (Islam)
 - In Hinduism, there’s belief in reincarnation. In this religion, there’s belief in rebirth. (Buddhism)
 - The Ten Commandments first came to the people of this religious tradition. (Judaism)
 - This religion says that Jesus is Lord. (Christianity)
 - Buddhism and this other religion believe in the concept of karma. (Hinduism)
 - What Christians call the Old Testament or the Old Covenant, this other religion calls the Torah. (Judaism)
 - The Bible is to Christianity as the Quran is to this religion. (Islam)
 - Christianity, Judaism, and this other religion have the same historical roots. (Islam)
 - In this religion, followers believe in the Trinity or the triune God. (Christianity)

- Followers of this religion don’t worship any god. (Buddhism)
 - Followers of this religion believe in multiple gods. (Hinduism)
 - Followers of this religion believe in attaining something called Nirvana—not to be confused with the band! (Buddhism)
- Declare whoever answered the most questions correctly the winner.
 - Introduce this week’s Big Question: Are all religions true?
