The Life of Moses

A long, long time ago, a baby named Moses arrived,
The king didn't want baby boys to live; he didn't want them to survive.
His mommy put him in a basket and floated it up the river Nile,
His sister watched from a distance too nervous even to smile.
Then the king's daughter found the baby Moses there,
She decided quickly that she would take him in her care.

Moses grew up like a prince, but one day learned something new:
He was born a slave-child, everyone called his people "Hebrew."
So Moses went to see how his people lived each day,
They worked so hard, it made him sad, he didn't know what to say.

Then, Moses ran away to the wilderness to hide,
He cared for sheep as they wandered in the land so far and wide.
One day he saw a burning bush not ruined by the flame,
He went to take a closer look when he heard his name.
"Moses!" God said to him, "Here I am!" Moses replied,
God told him to go help his people and God would be by his side.

So, Moses went back to the land that he had left before,
He told the king to let his people go, a warning he should not ignore.
But the king wasn't a good man, and he turned Moses away,
So God sent plagues of frogs, and bugs, but the king still made people stay.
Many plagues were sent to make the king change his stubborn mind,
And finally one convinced him, would that king become kind?
Moses and the Hebrew people packed up and went on their way,
But then the king changed his mind again, and wanted them to stay.

The good news is the people were already on their way out of town,
So the king sent his army to catch them and to chase them down.
God was leading Moses and the people day and night,
He was with them all throughout, and wouldn't make them fight.
Soon they came to a sea, with the army getting closer,
Would the army catch them? God would not let them, no sir!
God helped Moses part the sea so the people could walk on through,
But when the army tried to cross, the waters fell down, oh phew!

Moses and the Hebrew people kept going and were free,
They were no longer slaves, God had helped them like he helps you and me.
Months later, God took Moses to climb up a mountain high,
When he was on top of there, God gave him rules to live by.
The Ten Commandments came to Moses from our God above,
They were so people got along, and helped them all to love.
Moses lived an amazing life, and his story is all true.
He is part of the same story as Jesus, me, and you!
